

Advanced Trainee in Renal Supportive Care

Royal Prince Alfred & Concord Hospitals

A Unique Opportunity for Palliative Medicine and Renal Medicine Trainees in Renal Supportive Care: a Newly Created Accredited Interdisciplinary Role

Advanced Renal Trainee positions in the SLHD are based at Concord Repatriation General Hospital (CRGH) and Royal Prince Alfred Hospital (RPAH). As one of the largest Renal Services in Australia, the Unit offers broad clinical exposure, including transplantation, dialysis, renal supportive care, acute and chronic kidney disease management and pre-eclampsia; both in in-patient and out-patient settings. The Unit is active and productive in clinical and basic research and committed to all aspects of training. The successful applicants will be expected to work at both the RPAH and CRGH campuses. Palliative Medicine Departments in both hospitals are central to provision of Renal Supportive Care alongside nephrology colleagues and a dedicated multidisciplinary team, with scope for specialist Palliative Medicine training across the district.

This 1.0FTE position would ideally suit an applicant interested in dual training, but also provides opportunity for Renal or Palliative Medicine Advanced Trainees for extended skills training in the area of Renal Supportive Care (RSC). Supervision will be from both Renal and Palliative Medicine physicians, with involvement in both educational programs of each of the disciplines, and RSC educational symposia. There is existing potential for research and service projects, and multidisciplinary involvement across different care settings. The successful candidate must be ready for Advance Training in the RACP, having successfully completed Basic Physician Training, including the written and clinical exams.
